

CHILD IS THE FINEST SENSOR

Children are the future of the nation. Every parent desires to provide their children the best education as per their capacity and capabilities. They select the best of the school though it has become too tedious to select a school. Everyone starts bombarding them with the study material without thinking that every child is distinct. Treating every child equal on academic front is perennial problem that the country has been presently. In a school, where hundreds of children are studying, it is very difficult to survey and map the mind of each child.

Children get affected by each and every activity happening around them and with every piece of information. Family, parents, environment, friend-circle and school play a vital role in shaping the young and pliable mind of the child. Health also matters a lot and any physical or psychological disabilities should also be taken as an important factor.

Mutual relation of parents has also gone under many changes over the years. Fission of family system, working of husband and wife, economic consideration and pressure and emphasis on individuality has taken the couple relation to a different level. Wards get affected by these relations. Child is most delicate and finest sensor which Almighty has created. When something is wrong in the relationship and the couples want to pose normal in front of children or society, child senses the silver lining in the relation. He thinks about it and gets affected. Child's behaviour and performance gets a negative impact. Child compares the status of parents of other children and thinks that why it is not same for him.

Mind-set of children of divorced couples should be handled differently. The process of divorce is very cumbersome in India. During this process most of the time husband and wife are at loggerheads. Legal process, blame-game and internal enmity silently kill the children. Their mental space is fully occupied by this thing. Such students need to be given different treatment and care. Regular counseling, love and affection can bring such students on track. However, teachers and others only push such children to study even during such difficult phase also.

Children are sensitive to environment. Parents and guardians need to convey the message in the form of action rather than words. In a family, if child is asked to study and others are watching television, automatically his attention will be diverted. However, if parents are sitting along with the child or reading newspaper, child will study naturally. It has been observed that most of the time child takes the same profession or occupation as of his parents because he observes the things with his finest sensors.

Incidents, occurring around a child, play a major role in framing his mind-set and thought process. Mahatma Buddha adopted the path of nirvana as he saw old person and dead body in his childhood. He gave a serious thought over it and made efforts to find out a solution that has resulted in the emergence of a new religion. Likewise if any child sees the obscene, immoral, anti - social scenes during childhood, its memory can not be erased from his sub-conscious mind and it can yield bitter results. Actually taking care of the children is the responsibility of the society, as child is going to live in this society with the noble or worst virtues and will have long lasting impact over the society either good or bad manner. So it should be taken care of by all stake-holders. So, the children at least up to the age of 15 years should not be exposed to the cruel or obscene phase of the life. After certain age, they themselves can use their mind to analyse the things and will not be carried away by the ill-interpretation of the incidents.

If we feed good things or present better ideas and scenes to the sensor of the children, they will turn out to be better human beings and good citizens of the country. Finest sensor has the capabilities to receive the mildest signal and convert it into great symphony, which can transform the world. Need of hours is to remove all the spurious signals from the finest sensors. Give them quality time, better and healthy environment and use the quality of the sensor for the betterment of society.

Love, affection, sensitivity, hard working and liberal attitude can be very well fed through these finest sensors. Enmity, hatred, divisiveness, atrocities should avoided. As the world is becoming more and more competitive day by day, the need for noble virtues and emotional quotient has increased more than ever. Finest sensors have to be used wisely.
